

Read-Talk-Write

- Read a section of the text independently.
- One partner summarizes the text and talks about his or her thinking about the text. The other partner listens without interrupting.
- When the first partner is finished, the other partner adds, expands, or clarifies anything he/she heard the first partner say.
- Partners continue this strategy for each part of the text until they are finished reading the selection.
- When you are finished reading and talking about each section, write a reflection or summary together.